JUDY BAILEY (BORN 1935 -)

Judy Bailey is one of Sydney's most well-known and influential jazz educators and performers. New Zealand born Bailey became involved in Sydney's musical life during the 1960s through regular performances at the legendary El Rocco Jazz Cellar (with the likes of John Sangster, Don Burrows, and Graeme Lyall) and was permanently employed with Tommy Tycho's Orchestra (Channel 7), Don Burrows' Septet (Channel 2), John Bamford's Orchestra (Channel 9) and Jack Grimsley's Orchestra (Channel 10) as pianist/arranger.

In the seventies, Judy began teaching in the newly established jazz studies program at the Sydney Conservatorium of Music while also resident pianist for the ABC Radio program Kindergarten of the Air. During the eighties she became Music Director for the Sydney Youth Jazz Ensemble Association, an umbrella organisation for a big band known as the Jazz Connection.

Judy has gained several prestigious awards, including the inaugural APRA Award for jazz composition, an Australian Entertainment Industry 'MO' for jazz performance, and in 2004 an OAM for services to music and education. In 2008, as part of the Annual Classical Music Awards (APRA and AMC), Judy was presented with an Award for Distinguished Services to Australian Music. Judy's nomination was the first ever granted to an outstanding jazz musician. In 2014 she was inducted into the Jazz Hall of Fame (Bell Awards).

B12 CLARINET

THE LEGEND RETURNS

More than 30 years ago the B12 clarinet introduced a generation of students to the rich sound of Buffet clarinets. Immediately establishing a reputation for accessible quality, the B12 became the market leader across Europe, the United States, Australia, and Asia.

Today, in 2025 as Buffet Crampon celebrates its 200th anniversary, the B12 legend returns. Living up to its strong heritage, this highly affordable instrument retains the hallmark features that defined its predecessors. Its ABS body makes it both lightweight and durable, providing excellent handling for younger players. Unlike grenadilla wood, ABS is highly resistant to changes in humidity, making it ideal for use in all-weather. The nickel-plated, nickel silver keywork offers a strong, hard-wearing mechanism, and Valentino synthetic pads are perfectly suited to frequent use and passionate beginners. A stackable hard-plastic case, or a contemporary-styled gigbag will protect your B12.
